ABSTRACT

This resource guide provides educators and community workers with a listing of written materials, audio-visual materials, and Ottawa-Carleton (Canada) area speakers dealing with peace education. The first of three parts lists 27 books, kits, and curriculum materials. For each listing, appropriate grade level, annotation, ordering address, and price are indicated. Some materials are available in French and some are available on loan from the "Educating for Peace" organization. In the next part, over 60 audio-visual materials are presented in chart format. Film title, topical descriptors, length and type of film, date, country of origin, annotation, and ordering information are provided for each. Audio-visual materials deal with medical/psychological consequences, nuclear war scenarios, arms control and development, the arms race, environmental impact, government and industry, military production and policy, arms control initiatives, peace studies, activists and organizations, feminist perspectives, nuclear energy and nuclear arms, Hiroshima-Nagasaki, nuclear testing, and religious perspectives. The document concludes with a list of local speakers from the Ottawa-Carleton area. (LH)
